Kindertransport

by Diane Samuels

As life for Jews in Germany becomes intolerable, Eva, aged 9, travels alone to England to find sanctuary. Years later, Eva has become Evelyn. She eschews everything about her early life, now the archetypal middle-class Englishwoman. But Evelyn has a daughter who uncovers her mother's secret and won't stop asking questions. As the edifice crumbles we see what denying her background and culture has done to Evelyn and ask ourselves – where does our identity come from?
