

Free

TOUCHING my expressed wish the other day that programmes should be included in the

Programmes

charge for admission instead of being the ramp that they are at some concert and theatre performances, Mrs. Elsie Brown, hon. secretary, writes that the Leeds Children's Theatre decided some months ago to give programmes instead of selling them, and started the practice at the December production of "Tom Sawyer." The gesture was greatly appreciated by grown-ups and children alike, and the organisation only wish they had thought of doing it years ago!

If you would like to experience this courtesy of a free programme for yourselves, there will be a repeat performance of "Tom Sawyer" in the week March 12-17. I have seen the programme; it is no token affair, but a good deal better than most of those outrageously charged for today.